

Egypt has succeeded in implementing the best economic reform program among the emerging markets in the world, with the testimony of international institutions, where its fruits were shown through higher growth as well as fallen inflation rate. However, the implementation of the program was accompanied by many difficult decisions. Therefore, the current budget aims to lay the foundations of social protection and that citizens feel the fruits of this reform, where increasing & diversifying revenues to face the significant development in spending items remains the most important challenge...
