

The Coronavirus pandemic has imposed more challenges on the Egyptian Ministry of Environment, in terms of supporting the state's efforts to confront the outbreak of this epidemic, in addition to its plans to confront pollution and environmental degradation, as well as integrating environmental sustainability standards into development plans, and the process of transition to the green economy. The past few years have witnessed the ministry's adoption of many plans and strategies to confront environmental issues and support development plans, which open the way for the private sector for greater participation in facing these challenges. In this context, Canada Egypt Business Council and the Egyptian Business Council for International Cooperation will hold its next forum which brings together
